Cantonal Office for Integration
Canton of Valais

Welcome to our region, welcome to your home!

The Valais, where breath taking landscapes meet the richness of a vibrant, dynamic culture. Every valley and every mountain here have a story to tell, but it's above all the people who make our region so rich. Valais is not just a canton to be discovered; it's a place where you can thrive and enjoy a genuine quality of life in the heart of the Alps.

The Valais, a crossroads between tradition and modernity.

On one hand, it plays a leading role in cutting-edge fields like innovation, research, and entrepreneurship. On the other, it remains deeply rooted in its heritage, whether it be in its farming practices or its way of life and the preservation of traditional celebrations or festivals. This harmonious blend is what gives our canton its unique identity and makes it a welcoming place for all.

The Valais, a land of integration.

No matter where you come from, you will be invited to discover and share our local values and to fully immerse yourself in a warm and caring environment. Integration is not just a matter of simply adapting, it's all about embracing our customs, forging meaningful bonds and constantly enriching each other's lives. Our region draws its strength from the richness of the diversity of these exchanges.

To make your journey in Valais a success, we encourage you to get involved in local life, be it on professional, cultural or social terms. Help bring the rich spirit of our canton to life by getting to know the locals.

Valais offers far more than just a pleasant living environment. It's a place for growth, exchanges and opportunities. If you bring your energy and passion to Valais, your efforts will be returned to you a hundredfold.

Welcome to our home – welcome to your home!

Stéphane Ganzer

State Counsellor

Head of the Department for Security,
Institutions and Sports

Dear new residents,

We would like to accompany your welcome to the canton of Valais by informing you in the best possible way about the services and programmes offered to facilitate your integration. At the beginning of 2021, the canton of Valais had 349'311 inhabitants, out of which 23% were of foreign origin. There are two official languages spoken in the canton, French in the French-speaking region of Valais and German in the Haut-Valais region.

The aim of the Swiss integration policy is to strengthen social cohesion in a spirit of mutual respect and tolerance and to give newcomers equal opportunities to participate in social and cultural life. This welcome guide provides you with information on the main integration measures and specifies which facilities you can contact as well as organisations in charge of integration projects. The information related to the integration services developed by the canton of Valais is provided mainly by delegates for integration within your municipality ('commune') or your region. They are the contact persons who can give you necessary advice and guide you in the new environment. Please do not hesitate to contact them!

To facilitate the organisation of the Cantonal Integration Programme (CIP), the canton of Valais has been divided into four regions:

Information and contacts

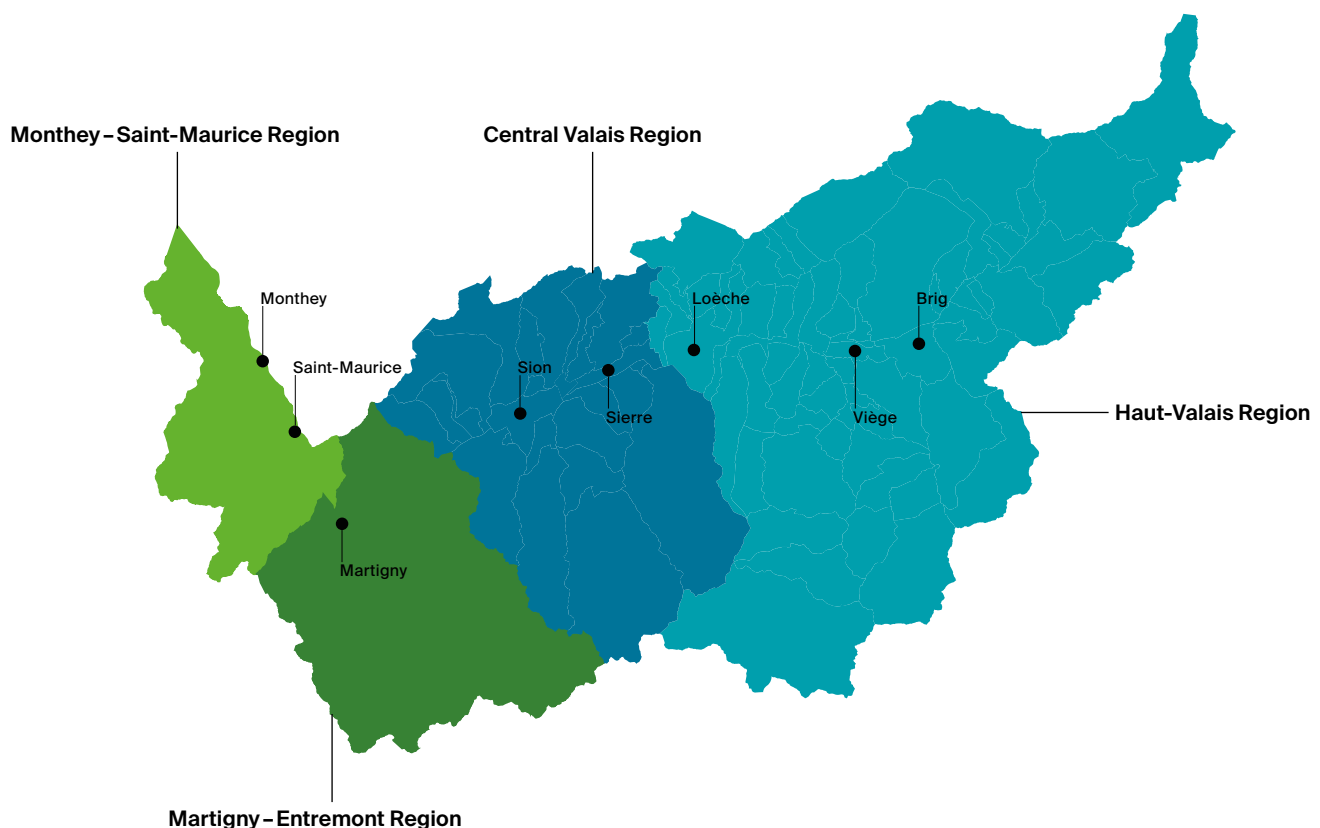

For any information related to social integration services and everyday life, community delegates for integration are available to assist you:

→ vs.ch/web/spm/integration#id17628967

For any information related to integration projects, the Cantonal Integration Office (Bureau cantonal d'intégration, BCI) is there to help you and provide advice:

→ vs.ch/de/web/spm/integration

For more specific information, please see the following pages listing which steps to take, what services are available, as well as structures and organisations able to assist you.

First steps

Registering at Residents' Registration Office

Upon your arrival in the canton of Valais, you need to register at the Residents' Registration Office of your commune of residence within 14 days after your arrival and apply for a residence permit.

The citizens of EU / EFTA member states arriving in Switzerland to seek employment may stay in the country without authorisation for the first 3 months (staying as a tourist).

Applying for a residence permit

The obtained residence permit gives the right to reside legally in Switzerland. There are several types of residence permits; they are granted according to the reasons of the stay and the subsequent rights and obligations will differ accordingly

Types of residence permits:

- L short-term permit (for a duration of less than one year, renewable)
- B residence permit (for a duration of 1 or 5 years, renewable)
- C establishment permit (5 years, renewable)
- G frontier work permit.

Asylum-related permits:

- F for provisional admission of foreigners (for a duration of 1 year, renewable)
- N residence permit during the asylum procedure (for a duration of 3 to 6 months, renewable)

Personal liability and household insurance coverage

Take out personal liability and household insurance (generally required by landlords).

Health insurance coverage

Take out an obligatory health insurance policy as soon as possible but no later than 3 months after your arrival. The health insurance starts retroactively from the date of your arrival in Switzerland.

Enrolling your children in school

If your child is 4 years of age or older before August 1st, enrol them in school by contacting the municipal school administration.

Language courses, interpreting services

Learning the local language

It is essential to learn the local language to be able to communicate in all situations of everyday life. It is also an important prerequisite for finding a job. In the canton of Valais, either French or German are taught, depending on the region in which you reside. Although a local dialect is used in everyday life, it is Hochdeutsch that is taught in German courses.

There are many French and German courses offered to newcomers throughout the canton.

Work, recognition of diplomas

Work permits

The Population and Migration Service (Service de la population et des migrations, SPM) and the Service for Industry, Trade and Labour (Service de l'industrie, du commerce et du travail, SICT) examine and decide whether or not to grant work authorisations, regardless of the duration.

The approval process varies depending on the applicant's nationality. The procedures and forms can be found on the web portal of SICT.

The citizens of EU / EFTA member states can normally work once the local municipal authorities have received their file.

Work permit conditions for the third-country nationals can be found on the web portal of SICT.

Diploma recognition

The persons wishing to have their diploma recognized need to contact a certification authority responsible for recognizing foreign qualifications. Diplomas are accredited at a federal level. All the necessary information is provided by the State Secretariat for Education, Research, and Innovation (Secrétariat d'Etat à la formation, à la recherche et à l'innovation, SEFRI). An online portal is made available on the SEFRI website for those wishing to take the necessary steps to have their qualifications recognized.

Preschool, school, training

Cantonal childcare offers

Upon your arrival in the canton, you need to make several arrangements concerning your children: obtaining a residence permit in case of family reunification, enrolling the children in a compulsory school, searching for a childcare facility, claiming child benefits from the employer.

Before being entitled to compulsory education, your child under 4 years of age can be enrolled in a community early childcare centre or with a childminder. Special attention is paid to the integration of young children aged 0 to 4 who are encouraged in their learning of the local language in order to make their entry into primary school easier.

The Cantonal Youth Service (Service cantonal de la jeunesse) is in charge of all the childcare services.

Diploma recognition

In Switzerland, the schooling is compulsory for children from 4 to 15 years old. All children without exception are admitted in a public state school of the canton of Valais. Children arriving from abroad, after being enrolled in school, are entitled to French or German intensive classes based on the linguistic region in which the school is located. Learning the local language within the compulsory school setting is free of charge.

Once enrolled in school, the pupils can be taken care of before and after school in suitable municipal facilities, the Reception Units for School Children (Unités d'accueil pour les écoliers, UAPE).

Post-compulsory training

Young people who have finished the compulsory schooling can obtain information about different training possibilities from the Cantonal School and Career Guidance Office (Office cantonal d'orientation scolaire et professionnelle, OSP). The proposed guidance consists of consultations and information services allowing the young people to develop a professional project. There are two types of training: higher secondary studies or a professional training based on both theory at school and hand-on training within an enterprise.

Induction and Integration Classes (Classes d'accueil et d'intégration, SCAI) provide transitional training to the young people of foreign origin who are beyond the compulsory schooling age and who wish to take up their education.

Health, health insurance

Basic health insurance

All residents of Switzerland are granted access to healthcare provided they take out basic health insurance as mentioned in the “First steps” chapter. Basic health insurance covers the complete range of services. It is optional to take out complementary health insurance for additional services. It is advisable to find rapidly a family physician and a paediatrician for your children.

The Cantonal Public Health Service (Service cantonal de la santé publique) provides information on all the health-related issues. At a federal level, a web portal dealing with equal opportunities for healthcare provides useful information in 56 languages.

In the canton of Valais, it is the aim of the Health Promotion Valais Association (Promotion santé Valais, PSV) to promote long-term health among the population of Valais in terms of equal opportunities and regardless of the age group.

Social insurance policies

Compulsory social insurance

The Swiss social security system includes several forms of compulsory social insurance, with the main ones listed below. Social assistance benefits can be granted under certain conditions.

Old-age and survivors' insurance, 1st pillar (Assurance vieillesse et survivants, AVS)

The 1st pillar insurance is mandatory for all persons who have their residence or are in gainful employment in Switzerland. The old-age and survivors' insurance allows all the residents in Switzerland (or abroad, as the case may be) to receive basic income at the time of retirement, currently at 64 years of age for women and 65 for men. All persons exercising a professional activity must make sure that they are registered with a compensation fund by their employer.

Disability insurance, 1st pillar (Assurance invalidité, AI)

Disability insurance covers a person in case of inability to work caused by accident or illness during their professional career. Foreigners are eligible for disability insurance benefits if they are domiciled and habitually reside in Switzerland at the time of the occurrence of disability, and if they have paid contributions for at least one full year or have lived in Switzerland continuously for ten years.

Accident insurance (Assurance-accidents, LAA)

All persons exercising a professional activity in Switzerland are insured against occupational accidents and illnesses according to Accident Insurance Federal Law (Loi fédérale sur l'assurance-accidents, LAA). If they work at least 8 hours per week for the same employer, they are also insured against non-occupational accidents.

Occupational pension, 2nd pillar (Prévoyance professionnelle, LPP)

Contributions to an occupational pension institution are supplementary to the old-age and survivors' insurance / disability insurance pensions. They are compulsory for all employees whose salary exceeds the minimum wage (CHF21'510 per year in 2021). All employers must enrol their staff with a pension institution with which they are affiliated.

Unemployment insurance

All persons working in Switzerland and who have paid contributions to unemployment insurance during this period of time are normally eligible for unemployment benefits if they lose their job. These benefits are available under certain specified conditions.

The unemployment insurance guarantees the right to wages in the event of unemployment and helps the unemployed back onto the job market. It is mandatory for all employees. The Regional Job Centre (Office régional de placement, ORP) of your region provides advice and assistance to facilitate the reintegration into the job market. Various job centres are available throughout the canton.

Health insurance

This matter was covered in the "Health" chapter.

Maternity / paternity leave

Women who are employed, self-employed or on unemployment benefits are entitled to a paid maternity leave of 14 weeks. A paid paternity leave of 2 weeks is also available.

Child benefits

These benefits provide financial support for every child and young person residing in Switzerland and whose parents are employed, self-employed or without gainful employment.

The Compensation Fund is the main contact for common social insurance related matters.

Social assistance

The aim of public social services is to help people experiencing social or financial difficulties. The Social Assistance Service (Service de l'action sociale, SAS) deals with all the related matters. In each municipality ('commune') or groups of communes there is a Medico-Social Centre (Centre médico-social, CMS) providing advice and assistance to people in need.

Cultural, social and sport life

Cultural activities

The cultural life in the canton is rich and diverse. You can find out more about cultural activities on the website of Culture Valais that features cultural institutions as well as the calendar of all the events taking place in Valais.

Several municipalities ('communes') offer a « Welcome Pass » giving new residents free access to cultural events for a limited period of time. For more detailed information please contact your commune of residence.

The Cantonal Department of Culture (Service cantonal de la culture) supports cultural activities. It promotes access for each person to cultural institutions, media libraries and museums as well as communal and school libraries. In most municipalities there is a library or media library available, free of charge, to the public.

Prevention, advice and support

Equality of men and women

The right to equality is guaranteed to both men and women by the Swiss Federal Constitution. The law ensures de jure and de facto equality, in particular in the family, in education and in the workplace. The Swiss law also condemns all acts of domestic violence.

In the canton of Valais, it is the Cantonal Office for Equality and Family (Office cantonal de l'égalité et de la famille) that is in charge of promoting equality of men and women, supporting families and taking action against the acts of domestic violence.

Support against discrimination

According to the Federal Constitution no person shall suffer discrimination, notably by reason of their origin, race, sex, language, religion, or lifestyle. All persons living in Switzerland are guaranteed equal treatment and protection of dignity.

On a cantonal level, all persons discriminated against on the grounds of their origin or race can contact the Anti-Racism Counselling Office (Bureau d'écoute contre le racisme) for qualified support and assistance.

The Anti-Racism Counselling Office is intended for everybody, whether of Swiss or foreign origin, who are victims or witnesses of racial discrimination, whether in the professional field, in the search for housing or, for instance, during administrative proceedings.

Other information

Some practical aspects will make the process of settling easier, notably the search for accommodation, the use of transportation and information about the finances.

Accommodation

In order to get an apartment, certain documents are necessary such as an official proof of residence, a certificate of no suits pending as well as personal liability / household insurance. Up-to-date information can be found on the website of the Swiss Tenants' Association (Association suisse des locataires, ASLOCA). The landlord may require a rental deposit.

After obtaining accommodation, a lease agreement is signed between a tenant and a landlord or a real estate agency.

If you are experiencing difficulties with the landlord or real estate agency, the Swiss Tenants' Association also provides legal assistance and advice.
